The tragedy is, to some extent, shrouded in mystery, but the facts so far as they could be learned point to the shooting as having been done upon very slight pro-vocation, if, indeed, there was any real and has a young wife, is steward of the Albemarle Club, First and Main streets. He was formerly engaged in the saloon as for himself, and has borne a good station. The wounded man, who is at the Virginia Hospital in a critical, though not hopeless, condition, is a son of though not hopeless, condition, is a son of Policeman Lewis T. Fraysier, of the Third District, is about 25, and was for some time clerk in Spence's shoe-store, Eighth and Broad streets. He resides with his parents at 50 Catherine street. OFTEN MET AT M'DONOUGH'S.

It appears that the two men had been habitues of McDonough's, and were ac-customed to meet there at night and, in customed to meet there at night and, in convival amusements, pass away a few hours. Rabineau's duties were such as to occupy his time until 1 A. M. Wednesday night about this hour he left the club and went to McDonough's, where he met Fraysler, and together, with several friends, they had something to drink. A game of dice followed. Although no positive statement to this effect can be secured, the information gathered from the conflicting statements of eyewitnesses, all of whom are very reticent, is to the effect that an altereation occurred between Rabineau and Fraysler struck Rabineau. Matters were smoothed over by friends, and the two men apparently became friends again. The game was continued until some time after daybreak, when the participants repaired to the bar and again commenced drinking. This was continued until 8:20 after daylorded and again commenced drinking. This was continued until 8:30 o'clock, when the shooting occurred.

There were present at the time some five or six men. Jubal E. Woodson was behind the bar eating his breakfast. He stated to the Dispatch reporter that the two men were in front of the bar talking in a very friendly manner, and the first intimation he had of any trouble the report of the pistol.

first intimation he had of any trouble was the report of the pistol.

Mr. Hutson Ford, who resides on Leigh street west of Hancock, had been with the men since 4 o'clock. He had noticed nothing of an unpleasant nature between them, and was very much shocked at the manner in which their apparently friendly conversation terminated. He said they were standing closely together talking and laughing, and he was only a few feet from them. Rabineau took the pistol—a 44-calibre British bull-dog five shooter—from his hip-pocket and put it shooter—from his hip-pocket and put it in the pocket of his overcoat. It was stated by another witness that this was done at the suggestion of Fraysler, who done at the suggestion of Fraysier, who told Rabineau if he was broke to put his platol up for the drinks, but this statement could not be verified. Mr. Ford said that immediately after transferring his pistel to his coat pocket Rabineau drew it therefrom, and while still pleasantly conversing with Fryasier placed the weapon almost against his stomach

I HAVE BEEN SHOT.

The wounded man staggered, but did not fall, and placing his hands over the wound, exclaimed: "I have been shot?" He was caught by bystanders and laid on the floor in a corner of the room. Ra-bineau expressed no regret at what he had done, and without even a glance at the prostrate man, laid his smoking pis-tol on the bar-counter and walked to the front of the room.

's stable and 'phoned for Dr. Carrington, who responded About this time, Mr. McDon-had been at church, came in, taken to his home. As soon as ertained the facts in the asked by Mr. McDonough why he had shot Fraysier, replied, "D-d if I know. I wasn't going to let him hit me."
"Did he hit you?" was asked of him.
"No," he replied.
"Did he try to hit you?"
"No." ed over the affair, and when

"Then, why did you shoot him?"
"I don't know."
Before the couple reached the station they met Policeman Angle, and Mr. Mc-Donough turned his prisoner over to him, THE WOUND A BAD ONE.

Dr. Carrington, upon making an ex-amination of the patient, saw that the wound was a dangerous one, and that his only hope was prompt and heroic treatment. He, therefore, had him moved to the Virginia Hospital, where the ope ration of laparotomy was performed by Dr. Carrington and Dr. Stuart McGuire. The bullet entered the abdomen, and, penetrating the bowels, punctured them

The chances are against his recovery, but there are hope-

CHAT WITH THE PRISONER. When a Dispatch reporter called at the Third Station-House to see Rabineau, he seemed loth to talk, but in reply to many interrogatories said that he re-membered nothing about the shooting or the circumstances which led up to it. or the circumstances which led up to it. He appeared to have been on a debauch, but denied having been drunk when he shot Fraysier. He has a severe contusion under his left eye, and, although he would make no positive statement, he said he thought that Fraysier had struck him there. To his wife, who visited him in his cell prior to the reporter's call, he stated positively that Fraysier struck him, and is said to have ascribed this as the reason for using his pistol.
